TREASURES OF CHICAGO COLLECTORS
An Exhibition held at The Art Institute of Chicago from April Fifteenth through May Seventh, 1961
This exhibition is the second of a projected series which will be devoted to great objects of art in the possession of Chicago collectors. We here define a Chicago collector as somebody who lives in Chicago or vicinity, or who has once lived here. Accordingly, the exhibition includes some objects which belong to people who do not live here now, but who have Chicago connections.

The primary purpose of this exhibition is to show a group of distinguished works of art. A secondary purpose is to show the range of interest of Chicago collectors and their extraordinary taste. As it has always been, most Chicago collectors are interested in contemporary art. The great impressionist pictures—and this exhibition includes some notable Monets—were, in large part, bought when they were as new and daring and as "difficult" as the School of New York now is. The collecting of old masters has always been more limited in scale, but the taste displayed is of the best. J.M.
